CONTEMPORARY ART TODAY?

Akablackfrenchy

The evolution of contemporary art has been truly fascinating and has given rise to a wide range of artistic approaches. Contemporary artists have been able to take advantage of new technologies, cultural and social changes to explore and experiment in their works, breaking with established art traditions.

The diversity and experimentation in contemporary art has led to divisions of opinion between those who see it as an innovative and challenging expression and those who find it bewildering or beyond their understanding. This polarization is an inherent characteristic of such a diverse and complex artistic field.

A NEW VISION

The focus on the search for new creative techniques is one of the defining elements of contemporary art. Contemporary artists are not afraid to explore and embrace new forms of expression, resulting in a wide variety of artistic media and styles that go beyond the traditional boundaries of art.

Ultimately, contemporary art provides viewers with the opportunity to engage in an enriching dialogue with the works, challenging their perceptions and stimulating reflections on crucial issues of today. This ability to generate diverse emotional impacts and trigger deep reflections is one of the strengths and beauties of contemporary art.

SIMPLY ART

Innovative artists have always been frowned upon: yesterday it was Picasso and the Cubists, a little later Yves Klein, César or Arman and, more recently, the sculptor Daniel Buren caused a scandal with the installation of his columns at the Palais Royal in Paris and the exhibition of the American artist Jeff Koons caused controversy at Versailles.

Today it is a fact, art is everywhere: in museums and galleries of course, but also in the street, in homes, at school...

Contemporary art brings together many artistic movements (the famous Pop art of Andy Warhol, Street art or graffiti art, digital art or even audiovisual art).

A KABELCKFRENCHY

Born in France in 1981, the artist "AkaBlackFrenchy" saw the birth of his digital art practice in the United States, in South Florida (Miami), where he lived for several years, which explains his artist name. Drawn to art in all its forms, this artist began his artistic journey at the age of 17 through music and the production of several urban music albums before writing a book at the age of 34 and creating his first digital work in 2015.

Artist "AkaBlackFrenchy" is fascinated by texture and hyperrealism and is also inspired by the world and concepts of tattooing, genre painting and pop art.

His works emanate from a clever mix of classicism and pop art, in striking contrast to the usual digital art. The numerous tattoos inscribed on the skin of his subjects give many of his works a strange, timeless dimension.

The artist's works are distinguished by their printing on authentic museum linen fabrics, thus revealing a refined and unusual printing technique. Each work of art presented in this way acquires an aura of grandeur and authenticity, as if it were woven into the very fabric of art history.

These works are only sold in private collections.

ALBAN DELUME

Born in 1985 in France, Alban Delume is a designer and craftsman.

For many years, he has supported visual artists in the design and manufacture of their paintings, sculptures and other media, in unconventional formats.

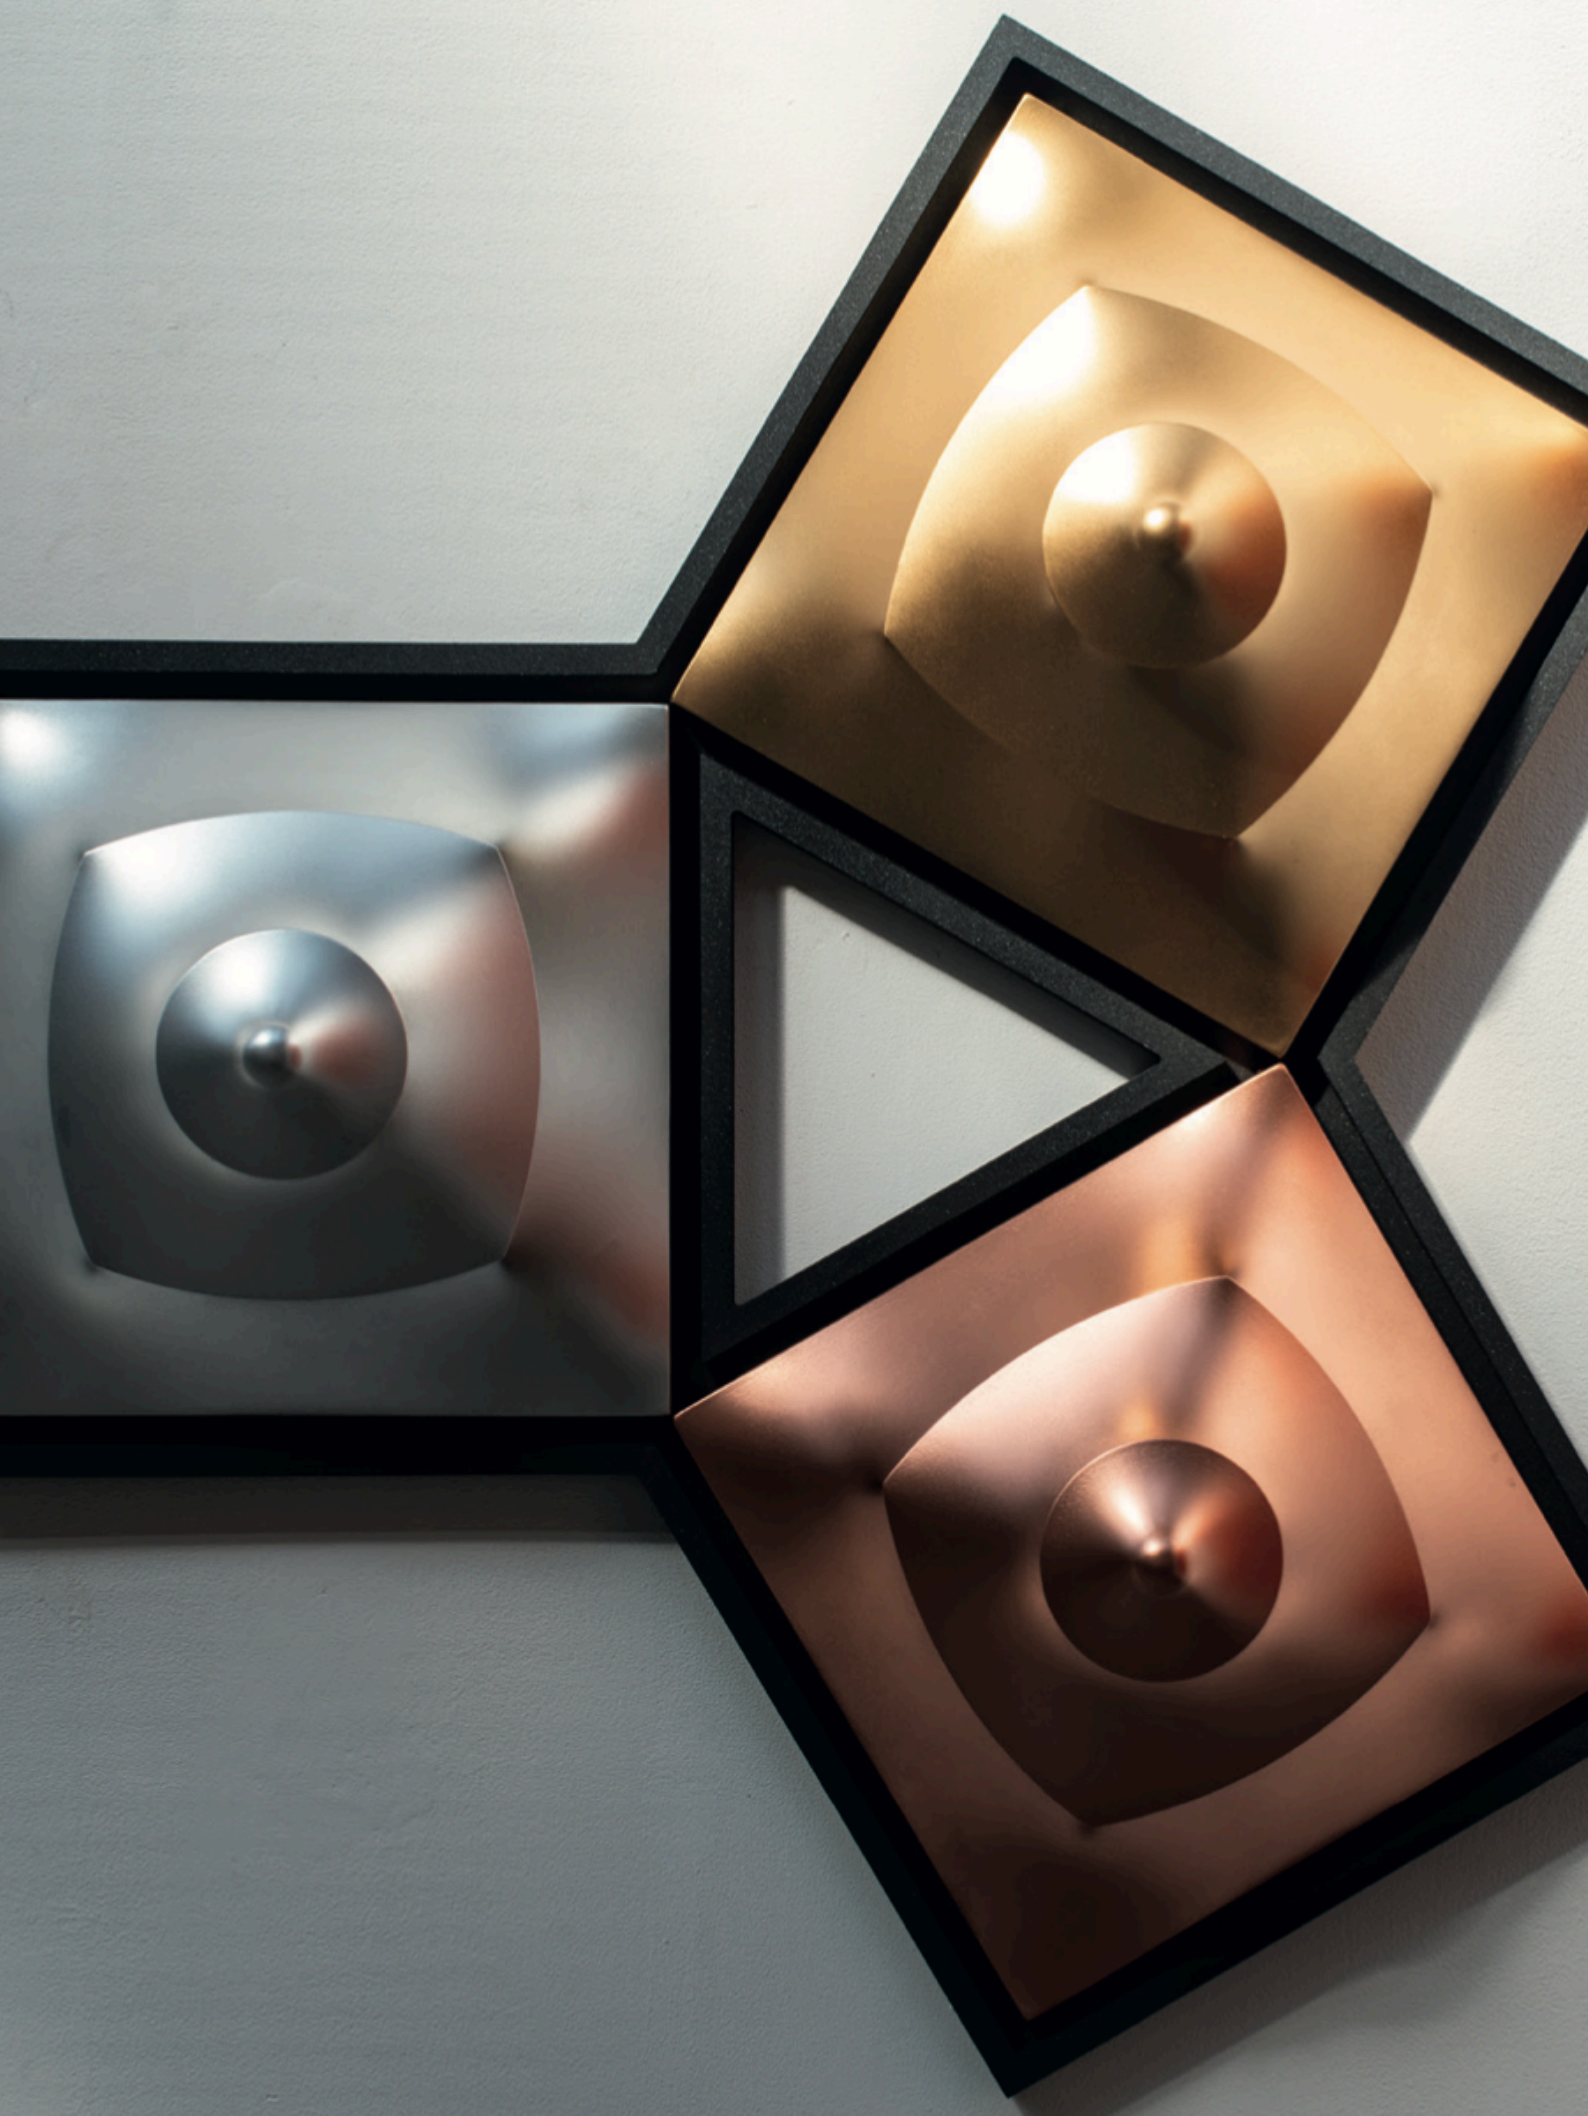

His marked interest in the history of art and design has led him to develop his own research since 2016.

Passionate about the evolution of pictorial supports, molded canvases, the underexploited territory that lies between molded canvases and sculptures, more particularly, the discourses conveyed by the architecture of the supports themselves.

In other words, the way content and form support each other.

Each of his artistic works is like a star that shines in the infinite firmament of creativity, where content and form come together in a fertile and inspiring harmony.

Like stars that guide our steps in the world of art, each work bears the name of a passionate star and carries its own coordinates, inviting us to venture into its unique and captivating world.

Vamp is a renowned Indonesian artist in the field of street art in Bali. As one of the first innovators of stencil and street art in Indonesia, his unique style and mastery of art sets him apart.

His influence as a reference in the world of street art shows to what extent his work is appreciated and recognized, both locally and internationally.

It uses the stencil technique, which is a form of graffiti that is used with templates made of paper, cardboard or other support to create an image.

The desired design is cut from the selected medium and then the image is transferred to a surface using spray paint or a roller.

The process involves applying paint to a stencil to form an image on a surface below.

Multiple layers of stencils are sometimes used on the same image to add color or create the illusion of depth.

BERNARD SAINT MAXENT

Born in 1970, he began to teach himself sculpture in the 1990s to relieve the pressures of his work at the time. He found in art a means of free expression, not limited by established conventions.

His desire to give life and movement to his creations, imbued with humour, makes them attractive and thought-provoking. His current work, based on the antics of a cheerful and omnipresent character, is inspired by the burlesque scenes of Buster Keaton and Charlie Chaplin, current advertising, the paradoxes of modern life and his own fantasies.

The unique character of each of Saint-Maxent's sculptures, which do not use casting, reinforces the singular side of his work. His technique, which consists of modelling resin on a metal structure and then applying a varnish, gives his pieces great originality and a distinctive aesthetic. Despite the diversity of the themes addressed, sometimes serious, the artist manages to treat them with lightness and a joyful perspective, thus transmitting a form of optimism through his art.

For him, art should be light and give pleasure. Bernard Saint Maxent has exhibited widely in Europe. His work has been shown in the United Kingdom, Hong Kong, Singapore, Toronto and New York...
